THE WORD "ATLAS."

Strictly Speaking, It is a Misnomer
For a Map Book.

Strictly speaking, "Atlas" is a misnomer for a map book, since it was not the word but the heavens that the "Atlas" of mythology upheld. Mercator, the famous Dutch geographer, who made globes for Emperor Charles V. of Germany, was the first to use the name in this connection, choosing it as a convenient and in some sort an appropriate title, because Atlas, the dejected, figures with a world upon his shoulders as a frontispiece of some early works on geography.

Atlas, it was said, made war with other Titans upon Zeus and, being conquered, was condemned to bear heaven upon his head and hands. Later tradition represented him as a man changed by means of Medusa's head into a mountain, upon which rested heaven and all its stars.

AN IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL.

Burial of the poet Campbell in Westminster Abbey.

Mr. S. C. Hall in his "Memories" describes the burial of the poet Campbell in Westminster Abbey. Statesmen, poets and men of letters followed the venerable dean of St. Paul's, the poet Milman, as, reading the burial service, he led the solemn procession to poets' corner. It was not, however, the presence of these illustrious mourners that made the funeral one of the most impressive ever seen in that mausoleum of great men.

A long, reverential pause preceded the words, "Ashes to ashes, dust to dust." As they were slowly uttered a British officer advanced from among the mourners and dropped upon the coffin some earth taken from the grave of Kosciuszko, the hero whose patriotism and death the poet had praised in verse. The effect was startling.

Then came the climax. "I heard a voice from heaven," read the dean, and immediately a thunder-clap shook the old abbey. He paused; the mourners were thrilled. As the awful sound died away the dean finished the sentence—"they rest from their labors."

HAILSTONES.

The Generally Accepted Theory of How They Are Formed.

Soft hail consists of minute snow-balls and true hail, or hard pellets, of ice of alternate concentric layers of ice and snow varying in size from peas to dangerous stones of several pounds weight.

Ferrel's theory as to the method of their formation is generally accepted. Hail, he says, is owing to the presence of a tornado which need not actually reach the earth. The lower part of the rotating column is a region of cloud and rain; the upper part is snow. Raindrops suspended for a time in the snowy region are frozen and if thrown beyond the influence of the incipient vortex they fall to the ground as soft hail. Should they be carried into the vortex, they ascend through the rainy region, are coated with moisture, mount to the colder region, where ice is formed, and finally fall to the earth.

This theory satisfactorily accounts for hailstorms occurring chiefly in summer, as it is only in hot weather that these powerful ascending currents exist.

A Clever Swindle.

The following story was told the other day by a lawyer in the course of a discussion as to the value of an indorsed check as a receipt:

"A client of mine had a bill of $30 against a customer who, he thought, was very fair pay. One day this man came into his place of business in a great hurry and asked my friend to cash a check for him. The check was for $30. Well, my client gave him the $30 and thought no more about it until a request to settle the little bill brought the response that the customer had an indorsed check to show as a receipt. And it meant a lawsuit to collect the bill."—New York Tribune.

Foxglove.

The foxglove is a hardy perennial that has a medicinal reputation. Digitalis is one of the most valued remedies in heart troubles and is obtained from the plant to which the common name, foxglove, is given. In olden times it was esteemed as an application to ulcers, etc., and Italian peasants have a proverb, "Foxglove heals all sores." Flowers of the foxglove were reputed to be favorites with elves and fairies.

A Parallel Case.

Miss Penchance at the church fair—Oh, Mr. Pustap, buy this sofa pillow. It has just been reduced from $4 to 75 cents.

Mr. Pustap (triumphantly)—Can't do it. I had $10 five minutes ago, but now I am reduced to 15 cents.—Judge.

Indication of Success.

"My lawyer is certain he has won my case," remarked the prospective belle.

"Did he tell you so?"

"No, but he has proposed."—New York Times.

They Do, Indeed.

She—You don't think I can use the word "obey" in the wedding ceremony. He—No, that's so. But they usually have to, all right.—Yonkers Statesman.

STOCKMEN AND STOCK

Turner purchased. The sale did not begin until four o'clock and these were all the animals disposed of that evening. It was more of an introductory to those who desired to invest their money today.

At this writing, 10 a. m., a great many people have already come to the grounds, and the indications are that several hundred people will be present.

Quite a number of folks were at the sale yesterday, notably Mrs. John Edwards and sister, Mrs. Stokes, Mrs. Chambliss, Mrs. Munroe, Mrs. John Pastour, Mrs. S. R. Pyles, and several others whom we did not recognize.

After the sale the people inspected the stables, stalls and the animals, and none but favorable comments were heard. In fact every person present was loud in praise of the work Mr. Chambliss has inaugurated, work that many of our older settlers laughed at—but what a change has come over their dreams in six months.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS

Mrs. C. Peterson, 165 Lake St., Topeka, Kan., says: "Of all cough remedies Ballard's Horehound Syrup is my favorite. Sure Relief for Women.

No. 18 Central Ave.
HOT SPRINGS, ARK., April 30, 1903.

Eighteen months ago I was so completely run down that my body ached from head to foot. My back seemed to break in two and I suffered intense pain in the lower abdomen. I could not afford to lay off and take a rest, and no medicine helped me any.

A friend told me how much Wine of Cardui built her up and advised me by all means to take it. The day I took the first dose the recovery of my health began. It was nearly three months before I was entirely cured, but at the end of that time I was in better health than I had been for seven years.

Anna Nelson
Ocala, Wednesday, CHAUTAUQUE CLUB.

WINE OF CARDUI

Mrs. Nelson describes the condition of thousands of women. That condition comes by slow stages. Usually the important function of menstruation is at first slightly irregular. Then comes the painful periods. Bearing-down pains and ovarian inflammation follow. Finally the nervous system gives way and the whole system has become affected and the pains rack the body from head to foot.

Wine of Cardui is a menstrual regulator of established reputation. No woman who takes it suffers as Mrs. Nelson suffered. It gives speed and complete relief from the torturing menstrual agonies which are making so many women invalids today. Do not let yourself come to the pitiable condition Mrs. Nelson describes.

Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today and begin treatment immediately.
